THURSDAY CLUB'S BAZAAR AFFAIR BIG SUCCESS

Good Program of Events Entertain Glendale Folk at Yeoman Hall

All South Glendale, and many persons from farther north, turned out last night to enjoy the frolic and fun at the annual bazaar and entertainment given at Yeoman's Hall, under the auspices of the Thursday Afternoon club of Glendale.

The room was brightly decorated with orange and black, and many of the club members in charge of the booths wore witches' caps, giving an added touch of the Hallowe'en colors.

The bazaar opened early in the afternoon, with visitors coming and going, and long before night the room was crowded. From six o'clock to seven, a home-cooked dinner was served to more than 150 persons.

The first number on the program of entertainment was a beautiful solo, "The Sweetest Wish in the World," by Del Riego, rendered by Miss Genevieve Wagner of Los Angeles, with piano accompaniment by Mrs. E. J. Bennett. She responded to an encore with "Keep on Hoping," by Frank Stanton.

Dog Act Pleases

Another number that especially delighted the children was an act by Jack Roshier and his three well trained Spitz dogs, that are appearing on the Orpheum circuit.

Later in the evening, three very pleasing numbers were given in fancy dancing, the Pickanniny Jazz, by Eleanor Marek and Eleanor Thompson, in costume; recitation and dance, Fairy Gladness, by Genevieve Marek; Kewpie Jazz, by Mildred Thompson. They are pupils of Pearl Keller.

The floor was then cleared for dancing; music was furnished by a local orchestra composed of Miss Marion Jones, Eddie Monict, Dale Crampton and Herbie Burck.

Mrs. W. M. Mabry, president of the club introduced Dr. Jessie Russell, chairman of programs for the club forum meetings, who made the announcement that the next forum meeting will be held next Tuesday night at the Cerritos avenue school. Prominent men will be the speakers, and will discuss, pro and con, the measures that are up at the coming election.

Affair Is Success

Mrs. E. V. Bacon, chairman of ways and means committee of the club, was in charge of all arrangements for the affair, and assisted by almost the entire personnel of the organization. It was a signal success not only socially but financially.

The booths were stocked with many attractive wares to please the customers, and the stock diminished rapidly from the country store, where you bought your groceries; the cooked food was well supplied with home made cakes, canned fruits and a variety of other good things.

The display of home made candy was fine and the popcorn balls were home made. The ever popular grabbag was as usual a magnet for the children, and the booth for the needlework was well supplied with fancy and practical articles, and well made garments. Hand made comforts, filled with lamb's wool, were displayed in another section. Edward Shipman was kept busy at his paddle wheel.

A number of articles were raffled at the close of the evening. Mrs. Barstow being the winner of the handsome comforter. Mrs. E. V. Bacon, the chair that was donated by the Murphy Furniture company; Stuart Street, a duck, on foot; Mrs. Edward Shipman, vanity case, donated by Roberts & Eckles; G. O. Wilbur, a beautiful doll.

MAIL EN ROUTE TO THIS CITY GROUND UNDER TRAIN

Pouches From North Cut Up by Wheels; Portion Said to Be Missing

A thorough investigation is being made through D. Ripley Jackson, the local postmaster, into an accident this morning which resulted in the mutilation of first class and registered mail intended for Glendale.

The accident happened about 8:30 o'clock when a full pouch of first class and registered, and a sack of second class mail were thrown from Southern Pacific train No. 26, known as the Owl, southbound from San Francisco and points north.

The train does not stop here, the sacks being thrown off at Tropico while proceeding at a fast rate of speed. When the mail was thrown this morning within a few seconds train No. 107, northbound, passed the station, hitting the pouch which had rolled onto the track. The sack of second class matter was hit and tossed aside.

Portion Is Missing

According to Postmaster Jackson every effort is being made to get the mail to Glendale folk in as good condition as possible under the circumstances, but it is announced that the contents of one registered letter is missing, while the authorities are at the present time unable to check the contents of another said to contain War Savings Stamps and Liberty Bonds.

Postmaster Jackson and others are making an investigation today at the scene of the accident, and it is also announced that the matter will be reported to postal authorities at Washington with the view of preventing a recurrence of such an accident.

Reading Circle Has Interesting Meeting

The members of the Mutual Benefit Reading Circle met yesterday in the juvenile room of the Glendale public library on Harvard street, with Mrs. A. A. Barton presiding. Owing to the rapidly-increasing membership the circle finds itself confronted with the problems of securing more chairs. At the meeting next week a cookie sale will be held, the proceeds going to the chair fund. Many members have volunteered to sell cut flowers, bulbs and plants from their own gardens, contributing the proceeds to his fund.

The review yesterday was of an article concerning the experiences of a schoolmaster in a great city, Angelo Patri of New York city, and was given by Mrs. E. G. Pomeroy, and proved of special interest, inasmuch as the circle will soon study a book by this author. The review for next week will also be from the pen of Angelo Patri and will be given by Mrs. W. H. Dotson. This review will give the author's views on parent associations, as he calls them.

Mrs. H. V. Henry told the circle about her trip to Burbank in the interest of the reading circle work. She was accompanied by Mrs. W. W. Stofft and Mrs. A. H. Brown, who assisted her in telling about the work as it is conducted in Glendale. Mrs. Henry reported a very enthusiastic audience and expects to see a circle inaugurated there shortly along similar lines.

After luncheon and roll call the book, "Mothers and Children," by Dorothy Canfield Fisher was resumed, Mrs. H. V. Henry reading. A total of paid-up membership of 166 was reported by the secretary.

Dead Woman Found In Westlake Park

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 26.—Police centered their efforts today on the solution of the murder or suicide of Mrs. Edith Helen Bunker, mother of a 11-months old baby, whose dead body was found last night in Westlake Park. A revolver was found near the body and an examination revealed that one bullet had pierced her heart, causing almost instant death.

Harlan Bunker, husband of the dead woman, could give the police no reason for his wife having taken her own life. He admitted, however, that they had had words at dinner last evening that might have been misconstrued as bitter, but that he did not mean them that way.

P.-T. MEETING AT WILSON AVENUE INTERMEDIATE

Number of Matters Taken Up for Consideration at Session Yesterday

Proper chaperonage for the young people was one of the topics of discussion considered at the meeting yesterday afternoon of the members of the Wilson Avenue Intermediate Parent-Teacher association, of which Mrs. R. C. Horner is president. Mrs. H. Thimm, membership chairman, reported that of a school enrollment of 491 the P.-T. A. membership at present was 110. The membership drive being conducted through the various rooms continues until November 1, when the rooms securing 100 per cent will be given a treat of ice-cream and cake.

Preceding the regular business meeting, which opened with the flag salute led by Miss E. Tyler, chairman of patriotism, and the singing of "America," a group of girls from the school sang three songs, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Kent.

Change Meeting Dates

A motion prevailed changing the date of the association meetings from the fourth Wednesday of every month to the fourth Monday of every month. The report of the treasurer, Mrs. H. Jepson, showed a balance of $75.71 on hand. Miss Carrie Noble, principal of the Wilson Avenue Intermediate and chairman of the committee on furnishing the office, gave her report and an additional allowance of $3 was made toward the payment of furnishings secured. On taking the room count, it was found that the 88-I had the largest representation of mothers present, there being twenty, and they were awarded the prize, which will be a treat of candy to be given them on Friday.

Miss C. Noble gave a talk on "Thrift" and explained that a slot machine was to be installed in the school where the children could save their money by purchasing stamps of various denominations and after filling a card provided for the purpose they would be allowed to open a bank account at the Pacific Southwest Trust & Savings bank, which is to install the machine, and same would draw 4 per cent interest. This thrift method was endorsed by the members of the association.

Reports Juvenile Meet

Mrs. C. H. Bird, juvenile court chairman, reported on a recent meeting of the various juvenile court chairmen of the Glendale associations and introduced the subject of proper chaperonage for the young people.

Miss Noble brought up the matter of Amendment No. 27, which is to be voted on at the November election, and urged the members of the association to vote against it.

They formerly lived at Woodbury, Conn., and they visited relatives and friends there and in various other parts of the state.

"We had a fine trip," says Mr. Mallett, "but we're glad to be home again in California and in Glendale particularly. While in the east we experienced good weather, although they had more rain than usual.

"Business conditions in the east are better, but are not as good as in the west."

RAILROAD DIVORCE IS DISCUSSED BY EXCHANGE CLUB

Chairman Selects Committee to Consider Question of Passing Resolution

The divorce of the Southern Pacific and Central Pacific railroads was the principal topic of discussion yesterday noon in the Broadway Inn, 637 East Broadway, at the weekly meeting of the Glendale Exchange club.

The attitude of the Union Pacific in this matter was expressed by Fred E. Pettit, Jr., member of the legal department of this railroad. He was accompanied to the meeting by C. A. Redmond of 331 West Harvard street, district passenger agent for the Union Pacific.

Attorney George H. King, of 106-A East Broadway, former chairman of the civics committee of the Chamber of Commerce, participated largely in the discussion. He suggested the appointment of a committee to report on the advisability of the club passing a resolution in regard to the matter.

Selects Committee

Captain W. B. Kelly, president of the club, appointed on this committee E. B. Sutton, E. F. Heisser and I. B. Carlock.

Plans for the Armistic day celebration outlined by a communication from Post No. 127 of the American Legion, were endorsed. Ed Smith, Dr. James Belyea and George H. Thomas were appointed to co-operate in this matter.

For directors of the Chamber of Commerce the Exchange club nominated the following members: E. F. Heisser, Captain W. B. Kelly and D. Ripley Jackson.

The success of the membership drive being waged by the Los Angeles Exchange club was commented upon by George Lindsey.

Hill, Dr. James Belyea, C. C. Coghlan, G. C. McConnell, Attorney W. C. Anspach, Ed N. Radke, L. H. Block, Dr. W. H. Appleton, A. Gelmor, Harry James and W. C. Waring.

Shrine Club's Dance Is Hallowe'en Affair

Two devils, a little girl in a bright green dress and a big girl in a light orange dress and about thirty miscellaneous couples last night in the Chamber of Commerce ball room annoyed the goblins of gloom at the Hallowe'en dance of the Glendale Shrine club.

Asquare dance was a feature of the evening. Really, it was more like a figure-eight because none of those participating would admit that they were old enough to remember the figures. As a result the quartets and octetts got beautifully tangled up amid much hilarity.

Hard and soft drinks were served for the occasion. The cider was accompanied by fresh doughnuts. Teetotalers were served coffee.

Hallowe'en decorations about the room were vibrated by the rhythm of the Shrine club orchestra, led by Violinist A. M. Kelly. He was assisted by Mike Kaufman, piano; Earl Floyd, saxophone; C. J. Donaldson, clarinet; N. J. Frazer, drums, and Roy Jones, banjo.

Among those in costume were "Charlie" Davis of 829 Orange Grove avenue and "Tom" F. Moore of 343 North Howard street, who were dressed as courtiers to his Satanic Majesty, and G. B. Karr, who cavorted about in a black nightgown as master of ceremonies.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 26.—Fires that have been raging on mountains and in canyons in the vicinity of Los Angeles for several days have been extinguished, it was reported today, although men were still patrolling the fire lines so that the flames could get no start should they break out anew. The blaze is reported to be the most disastrous that has occurred in those mountains since 1911.

ROME, Oct. 26.—Military precautions were taken today to defend Rome and all Italy against an attack by the Fascisti to seize this city and the government. Civil war is threatened. RUSSIAN FORCES HAVE TAKEN OVER VLADIVOSTOK

TOKIO, Oct. 26.—Advices received here late this afternoon stated that Russian red forces had taken over Vladivostok peaceably as the last Japanese troops evacuated the city today. A Japanese warship remained in the harbor to take aboard Japanese residents should their interests be endangered. Supplies of arms stored in Vladivostok were tunred over to the red forces by the Japanese upon leaving. American, British and French sailors are in readiness to land if their presence is required to guard their nationals' interests. Previous reports of their having landed to guard the city were declared untrue in the advices received here.

IMMEDIATE ARREST MAY RESULT IN DOUBLE CRIME

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Oct. 26.—Wilbur A. Mott, special prosecutor, conducting the investigation into the Hall-Mills murder, declared today that he had evidence sufficiently strong to warrant an immediate arrest. He added, however, that he preferred to wait an "opportune time" before ordering an arrest made. "The state is not 'up a tree' in the case, despite reports to the contrary," Mott said. "We could make an arrest now if we wished, but we prefer to wait until we have clinched our case and are ready to go to immediate trial." Mott also declared that he had in his possession "other evidence as pertinent as the Gibson statement." The statement referred to is the affidavit of Mrs. Jane Gibson, who claims to have witnessed the crime in which she is said to have named a man and a woman whom she saw at the scene of the murder.

'MYSTERY' WITNESSES PROMISE IN 'HAMMER' CASE

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 26.—The prosecution in the trial of Mrs. Clara Phillips, charged with the "hammer murder" of Mrs. Alberta Meadows, planned to call several "mystery" witnesses today that will deliver counting blows for its case, according to Deputy District Attorney Charles Fricke as court opened. Who these so-called "mystery" witnesses are Fricke would not divulge, but it is believed they are eye-witnesses to the crime, in addition to Mrs. Peggy Caffee, former chorus girl, companion and confidante of Mrs. Phillips. Other witnesses that were to be called today included Mrs. Lola B. Bonnat, who found the dead girl's brooch near the scene of the crime, and Mrs. Harry L. Warren, who was riding in a trolley car and saw Mrs. Meadows, Mrs. Phillips, and Mrs. Caffee riding in Mrs. Meadows' machine toward Montecito Drive on the afternoon of July 12 last, a few minutes before the slaying.

WITNESSES TESTIFY IN THIRD TRIAL OF BURCH

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 26.—Whether the insanity plea for Arthur C. Burch, on trial for the third time for the murder of J. Belton Kennedy in Beverly Glen, August 5, 1921, will be made, depends largely upon the tactics adopted by the state, Paul Schenck, chief defense counsel, stated today. At Burch's first trial insanity formed the defense. At the second trial, though Schenck questioned prospective jurors minutely regarding their stand on insanity as a plea, not a mention of it was made during the trial. Burch relied upon an alibi, in which witnesses told of seeing him in Long Beach on the night he was supposed to have been in Beverly Glen. Both trials ended in a disagreement of the jury. Otis M. Wiles, a newspaper reporter, who went to the scene of the murder, resumed the stand today when court opened. He testified to finding two shotgun shells, which the state maintains Burch ejected from his shotgun as he ran toward his automobile, which is said to have been concealed nearby.

RESIDENT HERE 40 YEARS TELLS OF EARLY HISTORY

J. A. Light Has Number of Reminiscences to Relate; Native of State

The son of native Californians, and he, himself, a native son and the father of a native son and daughter, J. A. Light, of 533 West Oak street, who has lived in California all his life and in Glendale during the past forty years, has a fund of interesting reminiscences to relate.

Mr. Light's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Light, lived on a ranch in Sonoma county, and it was in that part of the state that their son was born.

It was in 1848 that his grandfather, on his father's side, came around Cape Horn from New York state. After a short time in California he and his wife and family went back to New York for a trip and returned by water on a boat called the Independent. When the voyage was almost completed, the captain of the boat robbed all the passengers and ran the boat onto a small island on the Pacific coast off California. Mr. Light says that his two great-uncles were lost in the wreck, and that his grandparents paid $40 to get to San Francisco, landing there penniless.

Cross In Ox Train

The experiences of his grandparents, on his mother's side, were equally as interesting. They were members of an ox train crossing the plains in 1852, from the state of Ohio. The cart they traveled in is still owned by the family and is in the possession of Mr. Light's uncle, Perry Smith, of Santa Rosa.

According to a story told by Mr. Light's grandmother, there were forty wagons in the train, and during their nine months' trip across the plains, she kept a detailed diary of the trip, using throughout the manuscript her given name, Rebekah. Just the day before they reached their destination the book was lost, and it was thirty years after that she chanced to find a book in a library in a northern city, telling of a trip across the plains. She glanced through, and, seeing the name Rebekah, she read carefully and found that it was the manuscript she had lost.

After his grandparents had

Bartlett, chairman, and Mrs. John Robert White, secretary, in charge, the report of the nominating committee, of which Mrs. W. W. Worley was chairman, was given. The following members were elected to the board of directors: Mrs. H. E. Bartlett, W. B. Kelly, Miss Neva Veysey, Mrs. C. L. Peckham, Mrs. Lillian Dow, Mrs. W. W. Worley, A. T. Cowan, Dr. Henry Harrower, L. T. Rowley, Mrs. Mabel Franklin Ocker, Mrs. E. W. W. Hayward, Mrs. J. G. Huntley, Mrs. Archie Parker, Mrs. W. E. Evans, Mrs. John Robert White, Mrs. Arthur C. Brown, T. D. Watson, Mrs. P. A. Wells. The board of directors will hold a meeting in the near future to select their officers.

An invitation from the American legion to take part in the Armistice Day parade was accepted, and the Red Cross uniform will be used. Mrs. C. L. Peckham was appointed chairman of the parade committee. Mrs Edwin Sadler, city nurse, was present and gave a report of the work done and stated that the city health department was planning to have an exposition in December.

The matter of the annual Red Cross roll call, which will be held from November 11 to 30, was also taken up. Mrs. John Robert White will be chairman of the roll call and is planning a house to house canvass of the entire city.

Autos In Collision; Both Cars Damaged

A collision occurred near the intersection of Broadway and Central avenue early yesterday afternoon between automobiles piloted by Mrs. Louis H. Jackson of Santa Monica and George W. Loomis of 331 Hawthorne street.

Mrs. Jackson, who was formerly a resident of Glendale, was accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Edwin Virden of Los Angeles and Miss Minnie Hellekson of Los Angeles. They were driving north on Central avenue. Immediately after the collision, their car was driven up over the curb on the west side of Central avenue. The car was somewhat damaged. One wheel was smashed.

Mr. Loomis had turned to the left on Central avenue after coming west on Broadway. The right rear fender of his car was bent, a cup cap was torn off, the side of his car was scratched and one of the rear wheels was knocked out of line.

TEAMS OF WEST CLASH SATURDAY

Rival College Squads to Battle; Bears Seem to Have Advantage

With but two days intervening between now and Saturday afternoon, the annual U. S. C.-California gridiron battle is now looked upon as the principal athletic event of the entire west for the coming week end. Sectional rivalry between the northern and southern parts of the state has stirred up a continually increasing amount of determination in the minds and bodies of the opposing players since the two squads met several seasons ago until now the competition is more bitter than even that of California and Stanford.

Of course Andy Smith's so-called Golden Bears are scheduled to score a decisive victory over the battling Trojans of the Methodist institution, but such a feat is not to be accomplished without the most stubborn kind of opposition. Coach Henderson has carefully trained his hirelings and pointed them toward Saturday's fracas, and avoiding any unforeseen mishaps the final score should be held to two or three touchdowns. Henderson's latest prediction, which must always be taken with a generous amount of salt, is that his squad will be defeated to the tune of 35 to 7.

Remember Last Year

Last year's 38 to 7 defeat at the hands of the Berkeleyites has been a thorn in the minds of Cardinal and Gold students, as well as in those of the football team. There is no doubt that the final score was a fair comparison of the two elevens, as practically every person who witnessed the game, with the exception of the California rooting section, agreed that there was not more than two touchdowns difference in the two teams. With Capt. Charley Dean suffering with influenza and playing but a few minutes in the big game, Phil "Flash" Tiernan being forced out after furnishing the most sensational runs of the game and Gordon Campbell not even getting into the fray, there is no denying the fact things might have resulted differently. But—all's fair in football, and the only thing to do is for the southerners to reap revenge Saturday.

They Will Carry On

Although no official announcement has been made from the U. S. C. campus regarding the personnel of their lineup against the Bruins it is generally opined that Chet Dolley, "Bullet" Baker, "Hobo" Kincaid and Gordon Campbell will form the ball-carrying combination which will start the game. The end positions, which to date this season have been played at least 50 percent better than by Jimmy Smith and Paul Green a year ago, will probably be taken by Pythian and Milton. With such worthy huskies gracing the sidelines as Boice and Emmons, however, the first two named will have to step high to cinch the jobs. Milton is practically assured of a berth due to his uncanny ability at drop and place kicking. He is considered as the best bet in the Pacific coast conference in this line.

In the line Lindley will undoubtedly hold down the center berth, with Capt. Leo. Calland and Hawkins on either side of him. Norman "Swede" Anderson is sure of one of the tackle berths, while the other apparently seems to be a choice of Cummings, Blair or Newman, with the first named favorite.

How will this bunch compare with the following combination of Golden Bears—Maller, Berkey, Beam, Witter, Dean, Gallagher, Erb, Nichols, Spaulding and Nisbit?

Tennis Star's Career Rests In Balance

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 26.—The tennis career of "Bill" Tilden, II, world crack racquet wielder, lies in the balance today as the result of an operation performed on the middle finger of his right hand at the Germantown hospital. He is reported resting easily, however. The operation came as the result of a severe infection.

Big Football Fights Down on Schedule

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—Although it is not our wish to take issue with an old world tradition purporting to prove that all roads lead to Mecca, it is nevertheless our conviction that as far as the coming Saturday is concerned, dear Mecca has not got a chance.

On that occasion, traffic will be diverted toward Chicago, New Haven, Philadelphia, Boston, Atlanta, Ann Arbor, Minneapolis and the Polo Grounds, New York, for eight of the finest football attractions ever given to a mid-season schedule. Within the memory of gridiron historians, no October Saturday has ever seen the like of it before.

Regardless of what section of the country you may favor with your presence, a football spectacle is at your elbow. If you are a New Englander, you can jump down to New Haven to see the Army play Yale or up to Boston to watch Harvard and Dartmouth. If the middle west claims you, the great inter-sectional meeting of Princeton and Chicago at Chicago, or the conference battle between Michigan and Illinois at Ann Arbor are available, to say nothing of the fact that Minnesota plays Ohio state at Minneapolis.

If you happen to hail from the middle states, an overnight trip will take you to Philadelphia for the Penn-Navy game; if it's in New York, then the Polo grounds and the meeting of Penn state and Syracuse is a half hour distant via the underground horror. Down in the fried ham belt, the attraction is Georgia Tech and Notre Dame at Atlanta.

Otto Anderson Will Not Be In Lineup

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 26.—When the Trojans of U. S. C. take the field in the new Pasadena stadium against the California Bears of University of California Saturday, Otto Anderson, star kicker and shining light of the southern aggregation, will not be in the line-up. This was announced today by Coach "Gloomy Gus" Henderson.

A wrenched shoulder, received in play last Saturday against Nevada, will keep Anderson out of the game. Anderson tried scrimmage practice this week and when his shoulder failed to respond to medical treatment a specialist examined him and advised that he not be allowed to play. However, there is still hope that he will be greatly improved by Saturday and will be able to play at least a part of the game.

Penn State Selected for New Year's Game

PORTLAND, Ore., Oct. 26.—Announcement that Penn State had been selected to represent the East in the New Year's East vs. West football classic, was received with little surprise and considerable pleasure today by followers of football in the northwest. A telegram received by Dr. U. G. Dubach, president of the Pacific Coast Conference, notified him that Penn State had accepted the invitation.

The coming of the "Nittany lions," under Hugo Bezdek, means that the team which represents the west will be one of the greatest scoring machines in the country, football followers say.

Stanford to Meet Aggies of Oregon

STANFORD, Cal., Oct. 26.—To be prepared for any eventuality, Coach Andy Kerr had twenty-five members of the Cardinals on a northbound train today en route to Corvallis, Ore., where on Saturday his eleven meets the Oregon Aggies. Kerr believes substitutes are trained to play and does not hesitate to shoot them in. This is the reason Stanford's traveling party is larger this year by several men than has been the custom heretofore. The men were in good shape as they left last night.

Bears Leave Tonight for Pasadena Clash

BERKELEY, Cal., Oct. 26.—A light workout today preceded entrainment tonight of the University of California football squad for Pasadena to clash there Saturday with the University of Southern California eleven. Coach Andy Smith stated today his men were in good shape and he expected them to "give a good account of themselves Saturday."

The Sport Crucible

By Davis J. Walsh
International News Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Oct. 26—The business of barnstorming, over which Babe Ruth and Judge Landis went to the mat at catch weights no later than last fall, is likely to be ruled out of baseball when the major leagues convene in December.

At the time of the Ruth-Landis controversy many club owners considered the rule as then framed an unjust one, and subsequently amended it. This to their ultimate sorrow.

The privilege is being used in a manner hardly favorable to the best interests of baseball. Ball players from nearly every major league outfit have identified themselves with all manner of fly-by-night enterprises and are making their way around the coal oil cities, according to information received in official circles here. It is also hinted that not a few of the stars are giving the sunrise quite a play.

In consequence some of the baseball played by them has not savored of major league standard, and in general a bad impression is gaining foothold in the territory involved.

A determined war on the rule, therefore, is promised at the December meeting here. Hardly a magnate in the east now favors the proposition which allows ball players to roam at large through the country, living on a reputation they seldom justify in those exhibition affairs.

Sports Chatter

By Bill Unmack
Pacific Sports Service

More than twenty-five years ago the world was startled by the announcement that a man had ridden one mile on a bicycle in one minute flat. This celebrity of the time was a professional racing cyclist named Murphy and he was internationally dubbed "Mile a Minute Murphy." He made his great ride on a specially constructed track between the railroad tracks of the Long Island railroad and was sucked along by the pacing of a locomotive.

A few days ago another startling performance was announced, this time, however, the mechanical power of an airplane is the factor that enabled Lieut. R. L. Maughan of the U. S. army to travel 248½ miles per hour through the air. This is the equivalent of more than four miles per minute, the fastest time anyone has traveled on earth, through air or water in the history of mankind.

It is interesting to note the speed animals, humans and mechanical devices have traveled one mile. Herewith are the world's marks for covering one mile:

Human Beings

Roller skating, 1:59¼, L. Kimm at Detroit, March 1912; ice skating, 2:08, Norval Baptie, Minneapolis, Jan. 11, 1903; cycling, 60 seconds, "Mile a Minute" Murphy; running, 4:12 3-5, Norman Taber, Boston, July 16, 1915; swimming, 22:38 1-5, Norman Ross, Chicago, Feb. 3, 1912; walking, Bill Murray, 6:22 4-5, Australia, Feb. 24, 1912; rowing, 4:45, George Bubear, Thames River, April 23, 1894.

Mechanical Propulsion

Airplane, one mile in less than fifteen seconds, Lieut R. L. Maughan, U. S. A., at Mount Clemens, Mich., Oct. 15, 1922; railroad, 32 seconds per mile "Empire State Express," 1893; automobile, 23 7-10 secs., Tom Milton, Daytonia, Fla., April 26, 1920; motorcycle, 31¾ secs., Gene Walker, Daytonia, Fla., April 12, 1920; motorboat, approximately 56 seconds for mile.

Quite naturally human beings of their own propulsion power can never be expected to produce the speed of mechanical devices. The fastest time a mile has been done by a human being is that of the cyclist originally referred to, "Mile a Minute Murphy." True he had a mechanical device in the form of a bicycle, but it was his human power that was responsible, though in a sense the suction of the engine did for Murphy what no human has ever accomplished. The fastest performance outside of this suction power is, therefore, the performance of Kimm at Detroit on roller skates and this is one of the truly remarkable performances in any form of athletics.

In the animal kingdom the racing horse is the speediest, though other animals have been credited with doing short distances, prorated on their times for a mile, faster than horses.

Animals

Racing horse, 1:33 2-5, Caiman at Lidgefield, En., July 13; trotting, 1:54½, Uhlan, Lexington, Ky., Oct. 9, 1913; pacing, 1:55, Dan Patch, St. Paul, Minn., Sept 8, 1908.

The World Over

By Franklin B. Morse

With Yale university defeated at the hands of Iowa in the recent intersectional football game, reports of the form being shown by the Princeton team does not augur well for its meeting against the University of Chicago on October 28. Should Chicago duplicate its feat of last season when it defeated the Tigers, the so-called big three will pass out of intersectional football with two big black smudges scored up against them. About all that can be said of Princeton at this writing is that it is doing as well as expected. On the other hand, Yale has been something of a disappointment.

Willie Kamm, third baseman of the San Francisco club of the Pacific Coast league might be said to have had a tolerably profitable day in his last appearance in the minors before joining the majors next season. Willie was presented with a diamond ring and other presents by the fans costing in all somewhat over $1000, and then by winning the pennant, he received an additional $300 bonus as his share of the melon divided among the players. There have been few more popular boys in the coast league and it is predicted he will be a prime favorite when he gets into the big show. Willie always can wear the same size of hat no matter what success he may achieve. A well balanced youngster.

While the east is beginning to think of getting under its coverlet of snow and ice, down at Coronado Tent City, California, they are at work getting up a program of polo tournaments and championships for the Pacific coast. Many eastern ponies will be transported across the continent. According to officials of the club, last season was a highly successful one, and the coming year gives even better promise.

Opportunity awaits one in New York. A man who went there broke now owes $750,000.

IRRIGATED vineyards are offered by the Fontana Farms Company as one of the most attractive, the most permanent, the safest, and the surest investments in California.

The Fontana Farms Company, pioneers in agricultural and horticultural development, has made a veritable garden spot out of their immense holdings and offer these irrigated vineyards for sale upon very easy terms, extending over a period of five years.

It is doubtful if land under such high development and irrigated by a water system which alone cost over a million five hundred thousand dollars can be found at the same price in Southern California. There are a very few of these vineyards remaining to be sold and your opportunity to purchase one is limited. New vineyards to be planted next year will sell for the same price or more than these thriving vineyards are selling for today.

Consider the thousands of visitors to Southern California annually and the thousands who will continue to come to Los Angeles to make their home. Every one of them who enters California by the Southern Route, either by the Santa Fe or Southern Pacific or automobile, all traverse the wonderful property of the Fontana Farms Company. The Santa Fe and Southern Pacific, each with stations at Fontana, the Pacific Electric operating twenty-one passenger trains daily to Fontana, hourly and half-hourly motor busses operating over the two paved State highways traversing Fontana and private motor cars make it possible for the many thousands of people to see Fontana and to gain their first favorable impression of the great State of California. Fontana is truly the gateway to Los Angeles.

Do not allow another day to pass without writing for full and complete information concerning this, one of the greatest investment offerings ever made.

APPARATUS AND DEVICES

RECEIVING ANTENNA PROTECTIVE DEVICES

New regulations by the National Underwriters' association makes it mandatory that certain protective devices be employed to safeguard against fire caused by lightning.

The regulations governing receiving antennae are not so stringent as for transmitting stations.

The illustration shows a desirable form of antenna protective device which seems to meet all requirements. Heretofore it has been necessary to install a large switch, mounted on the outside of the building, with a heavy wire running to an outside ground.

Although this was a very satisfactory arrangement, it had this drawback, that there was always the possibility of an operator forgetting to throw the switch when through receiving. With this device no such possibility as this can arise, for there is no switch to be thrown. Once installed it functions without attention.

They are made of both the vacuum and tube types.

MAGNETIC INDUCTION

It is important that the student should remember that magnetic induction depends upon (a) the number of ampere turns and (b) the property of iron called permeability. The number of ampere turns is under the control of the operator. The permeability, as pointed out in the previous article, depends upon the quality of the iron itself.

If the current in the windings is reversed in the direction of the magnetic field is also reversed. The student should learn at least one rule for remembering the relation between the direction of the current and the direction of the magnetic flux. Two such memory helps are given below.

(a) Look along the direction of the magnetic flux through the solenoid and the current is in a clockwise direction.

(b) Grasp the solenoid in the right hand, the fingers pointing along the wires in the direction of the current; the thumb then points in the direction of the magnetic flux inside of the solenoid.

Also if possible and convenient the following experiment is simple: Wind an experimental solenoid with a few feet of wire about a cylinder, connect it to a dry cell and mark in some way the direction of current through the windings. Test its polarity with a compass, remembering that like poles repel and unlike poles attract.

If two different magnetic fields are brought together in the same space, with their directions parallel, a force is always developed. If the lines of magnetic flux are in the same direction the two fields mutually repel each other, and if the flux lines are in opposite directions the two fields will be drawn together. When a current flows in a wire which is at right angles to a magnetic field a force will act on the wire.

When the wire which carries the current is at right angles to the direction of the magnetic field the pushing force on the wire is equal to the product of the current, the intensity of the magnetic field and the length of wire which lies in the magnetic field.

If the wire makes some other angles with the direction of the magnetic field the direction of the force is still the same as for the right angle position, and the value of the force is smaller. In the single instance that the direction of the current coincides with the direction of the magnetic field the force is zero.

This push on a single wire is in most cases small, but by arranging many wires in a very intense magnetic field very large forces may be obtained. The powerful turning effect of an electric motor depends upon these principles.

Henry Wilkens Case Now Nearing Close

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 26. — The defense planned today to close its case in behalf of Henry Wilkens, auto mechanic, charged with the murder of his wife. Telling blows were landed by Defense Counsel Murphy in the closing hours of the presentation of his case.

Two police detectives testified that Wilkens was in such a mentally weakened condition when he failed to identify Walter and Arthur Castor in a line-up at police headquarters, that they doubted whether he had actually seen the men. Lee Owens, a newspaper reporter, testified Arthur Castor had admitted to him that "lies were being put into his confession."

Nicolai Lenine Again Ill; Quits Duties

LONDON, Oct. 26.—Nicolai Lenine, Russian government head, is sick again and has been compelled to give up all his official duties, according to a Riga dispatch to the Daily Express today. The dispatch added that Lenine has been compelled to leave Moscow and return to his country home.

VINEYARDS GAIN MUCH PROSPERITY

Acreage at Fontana Provides Opportunity for People to Secure Independence

There are many ways to make a living in Southern California, but one which has become popular of recent years because of the small amount of time required and the proportionately large and certain annual returns is to be found in the production of raisins.

As a result of the consistent advertising campaign of the Sunmaid growers, California now produces 60 per cent of the world's total supply. Within three months after the 5-cent packages of raisins were put on the market over three hundred million of them were sold.

The great raisin growing section of Southern California is within a radius of ten miles of Fontana where the great Fontana vineyards open the door of opportunity to those desiring to engage in this pursuit.

Initial Investment

A ten-acre vineyard at Fontana will require an initial investment of $1250, the remainder to be made up in small payments over a period of five years. When mature in about three years from the present date it should yield from sixteen to twenty tons of raisins. Last year raisins sold in the Fontana district for from 12½ to 15 cents a pound. At the lowest figures this would mean a return of around $4000.

A vineyard of this sort should be plowed once a year and cultivated about six times. Irrigation depends upon the season—two or three times. Harvest takes two weeks for picking and an additional two weeks for drying the fruit. The entire work of the vineyard could all be done by members of one family in eighty days' time, leaving the owner 220 days to follow whatever pursuits pleased him most. Or if one lives in town and desired to hire this work done, it has been conservatively estimated that $50 an acre or a total of $500 would cover all cultural expense, harvesting and marketing.

Beautiful Homes

The best evidence of the prosperity of any industry is to be found by talking with those engaged in it. All through the San Bernardino county grape district around Fontana beautiful new houses stand as evidence of the profits earned by the growers in the last few years. One of the most interesting of these is that built by R. N. Heath, a few miles from Fontana.

Mr. Heath's sixty-acre vineyard this year yielded him around a hundred tons of raisins.

Raisin culture has reached the point of stability where it offers unusual opportunities for the man with moderate capital to invest, and the plan of sale adopted at Fontana enables one to become a raisin producer with a minimum of inconvenience, the terms being distributed over five years so as to enable one to meet part of his payments from his crop, and all care and water being provided free until the vines are in bearing.

Hundreds of people from Los Angeles and vicinity have taken advantage of this exceptional offer. Over a half million dollars have been invested in this way in the last few months, and it is estimated that the sales will go well over the million mark before the next planting season.

ALL KINDS

California and New York were arguing.

"You're always bragging about your climate," complained New York. "I wish you'd tell me what there is in it so superior to mine."

"No comparison," declared California, scornfully. "You haven't any climate at all. All you have is different weathers."

Put An End To Neuritis

Neuritis is an inflammation of the nerves, brought on by colds, injuries, bruises, malaria or infectious diseases. As a rule it settles in the shoulder, neck, forearm, thigh, leg or small of the back, causing merciless, stabbing pains that are often mistaken for rheumatism, sciatica or neuralgia.

Regardless of what caused your neuritis or where the pains are located, it is possible to obtain quick relief without taking narcotics or other dangerous drugs. An application of Tysmol over the part that hurts usually stops the misery. Tysmol is absorbed through the pores of the skin and has a soothing, healing effect upon the diseased nerves.

Side Talks by Ruth Cameron

SPEAKING OF CRUMB BUCKETS

I had an interesting talk the other day with no less a personage than the man who empties our crumb bucket.

It is one of my pet theories that you will find anyone interesting if you talk to him about the thing he knows most about—which, presumably, is his work. Hence we talked about the thing the crumb bucket man knows a great deal about—namely, what is to be found in crumb buckets (only he didn't call them crumb buckets).

He collected for a district in which live not wealthy people but people of the upper middle class financially, with incomes that according to the style in which they live (I'll admit you never can be sure) must be somewhere between $5,000 and $20,000 a year.

What He Finds

Said the crumb bucket man: "Yes Ma'am, I certainly get a lot of stuff for my hens and pigs and a lot of stuff that's too good for the likes of them. There'll be almost a whole loaf of bread sometimes and then again a great big chunk of meat, the end of a fine roast and then a carcass of chicken with enough chicken sticking to it to make a good soup for a family and a good soup after that. Why do they throw them things away? I can't be telling you. Maybe the help just get tired of eating them or don't want to be fixing them up tasty, and just snake them out of the ice chest."

I quoted to him the old saying that a French family could live on what an American family wastes and a Chinese family on what a French family wastes. He approved the first half heartily but said he didn't know much about Frenchmen and Chinamen, he never collected garbage anywhere but in America.

I always had my doubts about the whole saying myself. I thought it one of those clever-sounding exaggerations, but I'm wondering now. Truly, the American habit of waste and our indifference in regard to it is appalling. It sometimes seems as if when a family's income increases they feel that the chance has come not to have more but waste more. "We don't need to watch pennies now," they seem to say when the extra dollars come in, and as a result they only get fifty cents extra purchasing power out of the dollar, while the other fifty goes where pennies so easily go when they are not watched.

Must We Have War?

When we waste food we waste money, when we waste money we waste the time that has been spent in earing that money, when we waste time we waste life. I don't believe any housewife ever put a half roast into the crumb bucket, but if she did not watch her maids and prevent their doing it she was responsible for that waste of her husband's earning power. Waste of any sort is unfortunate but wasted food somehow seems the most poignant kind of waste. I suppose because there are so many who want it. If the Syrians and Armenians could have all that unjustly goes into the crumb buckets of America, none of them need starve.

During the war we came to realize that the ill-filled crumb bucket was a contribution to the world's need. It still is. Must we have the drama and horror of war to make us good citizens about such things as these?

Graham Gems—Mix two cups graham flour, two cups white flour, two teaspoons salt, four tablespoons sugar, one and one-half teaspoons soda, then add one and one-half cups sour milk and two well-beaten eggs. Beat thoroughly until perfectly smooth. Fill well-greased muffin pan one-half full. Bake twenty to twenty-five minutes in a moderate oven.

Bisque of Oysters — Put six cups of boiling water in a saucepan, add three cups of medium-sized oysters with their liquor, and let boil ten minutes. Blend together three tablespoons butter with two tablespoons flour and add one and one-half cups hot milk and strain into the saucepan containing the oysters. Season with two teaspoons salt, one-fourth teaspoon cayenne pepper and beat for five minutes, then let slowly boil for ten minutes. Beat up two eggs with one-half cup milk and add it to the bisque, adding also two tablespoons butter, in small bits. When the butter is thoroughly dissolved, cut each oyster in half and place them in the soup tureen and then strain the bisque through a clean cheesecloth into the tureen and serve hot.

Halibut Steak — Place two slices of fresh halibut in a frying pan with one tablespoon butter, one cup hot water, half teaspoon salt and one-fourth teaspoon paprika. Cover the fish with a lightly buttered paper, let simmer on the range for five minutes, then set it in the oven for twenty minutes. Place the fish in a baking dish, take out the backbone, pour Sauce Italienne and sprinkle one tablespoon grated Parmesan cheese over, then set in the oven to bake again for fifteen minutes. Remove to serving dish, garnish with slices of lemon, and serve hot.

Sauce Italienne—Heat one tablespoon butter in saucepan, add two slices finely chopped onion, brown for five minutes, then add one teaspoon flour and stir it in well. Moisten with one cup tomato sauce, one cup broth or hot water, adding one-half teaspoon finely chopped parsley, one teaspoon salt, one-fourth teaspoon each pepper and grated nutmeg. Mix well and cook until it is reduced one-half, gently stirring occasionally.

Pineapple Pie—Peel and slice into very thin slices one pineapple. Place it with its juice and one-half cup sugar in a saucepan and stew slightly. Remove from fire and add one cup thin cream, the yolks of three eggs and a few grains of salt. Mix well and turn into a pie pan lined with pie paste; bake until firm in center. Spread with meringue made of the whites of three eggs and three tablespoons sugar. Return to oven and slowly cook the meringue to a delicate brown. (Canned grated pineapple can be used if desired).

Diet and Health

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS

Those of you who are anxious and troubled about many things will receive encouragement from the following letter:

"Dear Doctor:

"For many years I have 'enjoyed poor health.' I have varicose veins which necessitated extra long silk elastic stockings, severe headaches, high blood pressure and a throat trouble which has caused me much suffering and expense. I took two treatments per week from a specialist for five months last winter. It was not improving me as I thought it should so I went to another specialist who told me to get rid of my surplus fat, get my blood pressure down and my nerves calmed and my throat would be all right.

"That was on May 27, '22, and I weighed 225 lbs. Nearly 100 lbs. overweight. Shortly after I began to diet my doctor told me of your system and advised my trying it out as it would give me more variety in my food. I have done so and I have lost 26 pounds and feel better than I have for years. Not one drop of medicine have I had! My blood pressure went down from 186 to 145 the first five weeks. I have not had it taken since.

"I have discarded one elastic stocking and wear a light bandage on the left leg only and have no pain from veins. Expect to leave off bandage soon; have worn elastic stockings for seven years, and the last pair cost me $28. One year was as long as a pair would last.

"The first day I began on your menus it seemed like a veritable New England Thanksgiving dinner in comparison to my diet of bran and greens! I was losing strength on that, but, thanks to you, I am now gaining strength and losing fat. I hope I can meet you sometime and express my great thanks to you.—Mrs. K."

This makes me very happy, Mrs. K. Write again when you have lost 25 pounds more, will you? And tell us how the varicose veins are then.

Anxious Mother—You say your little girl who is considerably underweight, has been examined by a competent physician and pronounced organically sound. She eats fairly well but dislikes many of the things she should eat. You want to know if I believe that she should be compelled to eat those foods.

This question of feeding children who have strong distastes of certain wholesome foods is a very common one, and a serious one, too. Oftentimes if the foods are fixed in a more attractive manner they will be eaten. Explaining to the child that she needs certain foods to make her look like some one she admires, or some such explanation may encourage her. Perhaps you can give her some special reward at the end of the week for eating the foods she needs. Children can often be taught to like the things they dislike if they are handled tactfully.

You say that your little girl is very energetic. It may be that this excess energy is the thing that is keeping her thin. Does she have a nap or a rest period for an hour or so every day?

Don't worry her about her thinness. Talk about her getting plumper even though you have to stretch your imagination a little to say so. This 'holding the thought' of what you want and expressing it occasionally, is sound psychology. One should be especially careful to have the right psychological atmosphere around children.

BEAUTY CHATS by EDNA KENT FORBES

MISUNDERSTOOD FEET

How little we understand our feet. We do the most extraordinary number of thing to them and then expect them to behave themselves and keep up comfortable while we pinch them, cramp them, elevate them on spindly heels and put as much as 200 pounds weight on ten weak-backed toes, then at last when corns appear as a protest we feel ourselves injured!

The first thing to do is to give the feet an ordinary sporting chance, that is, sufficient space to move and bend and a reasonable opportunity to breathe. By this I mean for air to get at the feet. High heavy boots will not permit this, neither will tight ones.

If you do all this the feet will be healthier, but meantime there are probably troublesome corns and bunions which must be treated. Bunions will correct themselves in time, at least to a great extent if you wear round toe shoes. There is little else you can do except to strap them straight, massage them nightly and work the big toe about so as to get the joint loose.

Home treatments for corns are more varied. The feet should be soaked for twenty minutes or so in hot soapy water to loosen the dead skin which forms the corn, as much as possible should then be shaved off with an exceedingly sharp knife or razor blade—a delicate operation that requires steady nerve and hand. The edge toward the living corn can be trimmed with ordinary manicure scissors. The spot should then be painted with collodion which will take out the soreness, or rubbed well with antiseptic ointment.

Never use ready made corn pads. Instead, buy thick felt, cut in pieces larger than the corn, cut a small hole for breathing space and paste this over the affected part using adhesive plaster or a special mucilage which comes for the purpose.

Bobby K.—With brown hair, hazel eyes and a fair skin you will be able to wear almost all colors. A becoming combination for you would be a rich shade of brown with some burnt orange added in trimmings.

J. B. M.—It takes patient treatment to free the pores of blackheads, as there must be cleansing and then shrinkage of the pores, which cannot be accomplished all at once. Rub cleansing cream into skin until all soil is dissolved; remove with hot damp cloths, after which close the pores by using cold water or an ice rub.

Very Anxious—Cleanse the system and live on a smple det for a short tme until the skin clears of the pimples. A simple blood purifier is a tea made by steeping dandelion roots until the juices are extracted from them. A wineglassful three times each day will be enough for most people. A salad made from the young dandelion leaves will be almost as effective as the tea when there is only a mild case of pimples.

Tomorrow—Keep the Nails Young

All inquiries addressed to Miss Forbes in care of the "Beauty Chats" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So, if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the question.—The Editor

The MUCKER

by Edgar Rice Burroughs

Copyright 1921 by Edgar Rice Burroughs

It was Theriere. Cautiously he moved to a sleeper nearby whom he shook gently until he had awakened him.

"Hush, Byrne," cautioned the Frenchman. "It is I, Theriere. Help me awaken the others—see that there is no noise."

"Wot's doin'?" queried the mucker.

"We are going to break camp, and occupy the new location before that bunch of pirates can beat us to it," whispered Theriere in reply; "and," he added, "we're going to take the salvage and the girl with us."

The mucker grinned.

"Gee!" he said. "Won't dey be a sore bunch in de mornin'?"

The work of awakening the balance of the party required but a few minutes and when the plan was explained to them, all seemed delighted with the prospect of discomfiting Skipper Simms and Squint Eye. It was decided that only the eatables be carried away on the first trip, and that if a second trip was possible before dawn the clothing, canvas, and cordabe that had been taken from the water might then be purloined.

Miller and Swenson were detailed to bring up the rear with Miss Harding, assisting her up the steep side of the cliff. Divine was to act as guide to the new camp, while Theriere took general command of the little pile of supplies that were heaped fifty or sixty feet from the sleeping members of Simms' faction. The three left behind walked in silence to Barbara Harding's shelter. Here Divine scratched at the piece of sail cloth which served as a door until he had succeeded in awakening the sleeper within. And from above Oda Yorimoto watched the activity in the little cove wih intent and unwavering eyes.

The girl, roused from a fitful slumber, came to the doorway of her primitive abode, alarmed by this nocturnal summons.

"It is I, Larry," whispered the man. "Are you dressed?"

"Yes," replied the girl, stepping out into the moonlight.

"What do you want? What has happened?"

"We are going to take you away from Simms—Theriere and I," replied the man, "and establish a safe camp of our own where they cannot molest you. Theriere and the others have gone for the supplies now, and as soon as they return we shall commence the ascent of the cliffs. If you have any further preparations to make, Barbara, please make haste, as we must get away from here as quickly as possible. Should any of Simms' people awaken there is sure to be a fight."

The girl turned back into the shelter to gather together a handful of wraps that had been saved from the wreck.

Down by the salvage Theriere, Bryne, Bony Sawyer, Red Sanders, Blanco and Wilson were selecting the goods that they wished to carry with them. It was found that two trips would be necessary to carry off the bulk of the rations, so Theriere sent the mucker to summon Miller and Swenson.

"We'll carry all that eight of us can to the top of the cliffs," he said; "hide it there and then come back for the balance. We may be able to get it later if we are unable to make two trips to the camp tonight."

While they were waiting for Byrne to return with the two recruits one of the sleepers in the Simms camp stirred. Instantly the five mauraders dropped stealthily to the ground behind the boxes and casks. Only Theriere kept his eyes above the level of the top of their shelter that he might watch the movements of the enemy.

The figure sat up and looked about. It was Ward. Slowly he arose and approached the pile of salvage. Theriere drew his revolver, holding it in readiness for an emergency. Should the first mate look in the direction of Barbara Harding's shelter he must certainly see the four figures waiting there in the moonlight. Theriere turned his own head in the direction of the shelter that he might see how plainly the men there were visible. To his delight he saw that no one was in sight. Either they had seen Ward, or for the sake of greater safety from detection had moved to the opposite side of the shelter.

GOVERNOR ATTACKS SENATOR

Governor Thomas W. Hardwick, of Georgia, left, who issued a statement in which he denounced U. S. Senator William J. Harris as a "liar" and a "coward" and offered to give the senator "any satisfaction" the latter might desire or "have the courage to demand." Governor Hardwick was soundly beaten this month in a primary to choose a successor to the late Senator Thomas E. Watson.

Book Reviews

Elinor Colhouse. By Stephen Hudson. Alfred A. Knopf, New York.

This is, the author explains, a prologue to the previously published volume called "Richard Kurt." Both form part of a series of books, of which the third, called "The Rack," is now in preparation.

It is the story of a scheming and ambitious young woman, determined to get away from the deadening environment into which she was born. All of this is natural enough, but Elinor's satanic temper, her total lack of honor or truth, her mean and ugly attitude to her mother, and, above all, the outrageous methods she took in order to entrap the young and high-minded Englishman, Richard Kurt, whom an unkind fate threw in her way, are all of a piece in their sordid ugliness.

The book is written with an intensity and a belief in the authenticity of its characters that make it a compelling volume. It is the intensity, cruel and hard though it is, that accounts for the remarkable compression which enables Mr. Hudson to tell the story of the entrapping of Kurt in some 30,000 words. While the reader is left in suspense as to how Kurt will wriggle out of the tragic predicament he has let himself in for, it is, nevertheless, in a way complete. For there is no doubt of the suffering he is to undergo, of the fearful wrongness of the marriage Elinor forced upon him. In every way an unusual book, as unpleasant as it is powerful, is this introductory volume. Those who wish to follow the story will be glad that "Richard Kurt," its sequel, preceded it in time of publication.

In 1914 there were 1355 establishments in the United States engaged in the manufacture of shoes.

Uncle Wiggily Bedtime Stories

— BY HOWARD R. GARIS —

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE LATE APPLES

"Save me some, Nurse Jane! Save me some!" cried Uncle Wiggily, as he hopped into his hollow stump bungalow one day, after having been out in front sweeping the dried leaves into piles to burn.

"Save you some of what?" asked the muskrat lady housekeeper.

"Apple pie!" laughed the bunny. "I smell apple pie, and I wish you would save me some!"

"I am not baking apple pies," answered Nurse Jane. "It must be the cabbage pudding you smell. It boiled over a little and some got on top of the stove."

"Oh, dear!" sighed Uncle Wiggily, with his pink nose twinkling very fast. "I'm so disappointed! I thought you were making an apple pie."

"Well, I could make one if I had the apples," said the muskrat lady housekeeper. "Only I'm afraid that all the apples have been gathered. The farmers have picked them all from the ground and trees. But if you could fiind me some late apples——"

"Late apples?" cried Uncle Wiggily in surprise. "What do you mean, Nurse Jane? Do you mean you want me to go out and catch some apples that are late for school?"

"Nonsense! Of course not!" laughed Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy. "What I said was that most of the early apples have been gathered by the farmers, who pick the fruit when it is ripe. But if you could find a tree on which grow some late apples—that is, apples which get ripe later than the early ones—I might make you a pie."

"I'll do it!" cried Uncle Wiggily. "I'll go over to the farm of the kind man who lets me take all the carrots, cabbages and lettuce that I want. I'm sure if he has a late apple tree he will not mind if I pick some of the fruit."

"I think that will be all right," said Nurse Jane. "Hop along, Wiggy, and I'll get ready to make the pie."

So the bunny gentleman started off over the fields and through the woods, on his way to the farm where he hoped grew some late apples.

Surely enough, when the bunny reached the farm and hopped up into the orchard, there was one tree with some red apples still hanging on the branches. They were apples that ripened later than most of the others in the orchard.

"Ah, now for some pie!" thought Uncle Wiggily.

But alas! When the bunny hopped around under the tree not an apple could he find on the ground, as he had hoped. Uncle Wiggily could not very well climb trees as squirrels can, and the only way he expected to get apples was to pick them up off the ground.

But none had fallen. I suppose they were not ripe enough to fall, being late apples that would be ready to pick in November.

"Dear me!" exclaimed Uncle Wiggily, hopping around and around under the tree, all the while twinkling his pink nose, "how am I going to get apples for a pie if they won't fall down? Perhaps, if I tossed up some sticks or stones I might knock off a few apples."

The bunny gentleman tried this, but either he did not throw straight and hard enough, or the apples were fastened too tightly on the branches, for none dropped off.

"Perhaps I can shake the tree," thought Uncle Wiggily. He tried, but he might as well have tried to shake a mountain.

Uncle Wiggily knew not what to do. There were the late apples, but they might as well have been miles away for all Uncle Wiggily could get to take home to Nurse Jane to make into pies.

"If the wind would only shake the tree hard enough the apples would fall," thought the bunny. "Or if I could shake it hard enough the same thing would happen. But I am not strong enough. What shall I do?"

Just then Uncle Wiggily heard a rustling in the dried leaves on the other side of the tree, and he was just going to run, thinking it might be the Bob Cat or the Skillery Scallery Alligator, when, all of a sudden, along came Uncle Butter, the goat.

"Bang!" went the goat gentleman's head.

"What is the matter, Uncle Wiggily?" asked the goat. "You seem very sad."

"I am," answered the bunny. "I can't get any apples. If I could only shake the tree I'd have some."

"Oh, I'll shake the tree for you!" bleated Uncle Butter. Lowering his head and strong horns, Uncle Butter stepped back a little way and then ran against the trunk of the tree with all his might.

"Bang!" went the goat gentleman's head against the tree, shaking down many late apples.

"There you are," bleated Uncle Butter.

"Thanks!" laughed Uncle Wiggily. "Now I invite you to have some pie, with powdered sugar on it and a bit of cheese." And when Nurse Jane made the late apples into pies they were most delicious—Uncle Butter said so himself.

Now if the back of the book doesn't try to come around to the front and mix up all the stories so they stand on their heads I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily's midnight lunch.

"millions now living will never die"

—JUDGE RUTHERFORD

LIFE, perfect, limitless; with a regenerated race; on a restored earth; with a corrected climate and life-perpetuating food; under a Government which will satisfy the righteous desires of every living creature. And it's HERE, at the door! The portals of the new age are swinging open and many will enter and never die.

The old order is passing away, the new order is here. Christ Jesus is taking unto Himself His great power and beginning His reign. The Kingdom of Heaven is at hand.

You can by no means afford to let business or pleasure or any person deprive you of the solace and benefits enjoyed by those who have investigated this timely and heart-cheering message. The sole object of this Lecture is to bring to the people a knowledge of the dispensational truth now due to be understood.

Most gratifying success has marked the first week of operation of the new Brand Hotel at 223 South Brand boulevard, according to the owners, Borden and Company, and their resident manager, Mrs. F. M. Fisher.

"We want to express to Glendale people and visitors our appreciation for the fine reception they have given us," said Mr. Borden. "We have enjoyed real success during our first week and we expect to keep step with the future progress of the city."

J. H. LIGHT HERE FOR FORTY YEARS

Pioneer Resident of Glendale Tells of Early Days In 'State of Gold'

been in the west a year, his grandfather and four other men made a trip back to Ohio for fruit trees. The trip required eighteen months and before they left Mr. Light's grandfather gave his wife a gun, with instructions that in case of an attack from Indians, she was to kill the children and herself before being captured. This gun is another relic of the family.

When Mr. Light was a small boy his parents came to Southern California to make their home in what is today the city of Glendale. His father was the first driver of a Wells Fargo express wagon in Los Angeles, and was later foreman of the Richardson dairy in Glendale, on Brand boulevard near the river.

He recalls the days when the only road in the valley ran around the base of the hills and on up to La Crescenta and La Canada.

City Forty Years Ago

"I wish I could picture to you Glendale of forty years ago," said Mr. Light. "There were only a few houses and much cactus and sage brush with many rabbits and quail where the central part of the city is today. There were lots of trails crossing this country, and we used to follow them up to get fire wood.

"The whole valley was called Mesa, and there was a store and postoffice down on San Fernando road. One day they drove down and put the postoffice on a wagon and brought it up to Glendale, and that's how Glendale got her first postoffice.

"It was some time between 1884 and 1887 that we had an awful flood and food got pretty scarce for weeks. Just before the flood the Southern Pacific was taxed for the first time on cars, and they had run about eighty-seven cars out on a siding down by the river. I well remember standing, looking out of the window after the flood and seeing those big cars bobbing along in the river."

Mr. Light was for four years foreman of road construction for Los Angeles county. For twenty years he has been engaged in the roofing business, and for the past two years he has maintained the Glendale Roofing company, at 533 West Oak.

Mr. Light's son and daughter, Albert and Lola, are members of the third generation of native Californians.

Find Many Jobs for Unemployed In L. A.

LOS ANGELES.—Breaking all former records for the placing of needed men in industry, the Los Angeles office of the public employment bureau of California placed 12,337 men and women in the month of September.

The announcement was made recently by E. H. Hancock, district superintendent of the service, who at the same time offered the records to show that the work of the state office for the month just closed is more than a 100 per cent increase over the business done by the bureau in September last year.

"We have just completed the heaviest month's business we ever have had," said Mr. Hancock. "And the work of this bureau is reflected in the giant strides that are being taken by the city; by the enormous crops that have been harvested; and by the development that is taxing to the utmost every common carrier, and public corporation."

Seasonal Work

According to Mr. Hancock the labor market has been called on heavily during the crop harvests which are now finishing up and these men soon will be available for other work. As a result of the seasonal labor closing down Los Angeles shortly will have a surplus of working men and women.

The public employment bureau shows a record of more than 100 per cent gain for each of the last three months or a total of 32,516 placements for that period. During September the records show that 10,550 men were placed by the industrial department; 1380 women were placed and 70 office trained applicants secured positions; a total of 12,337 people.

Mr. Hanmock declared that the present summer has been one of the best in the history of the state, and has been general throughout the state, as all of the offices operated by the public employment service shows an increase up to 100 per cent over the previous year.

Magazines Donated to 'Hard-Up' Berlin

BERLIN.—Berlin State libraries are compelled to cut down their expenses for subscriptions to foreign periodicals to a minimum, owing to the unfavorable exchange situation.

While in 1914 some 3,000 foreign periodicals at the price of about 35,000 marks were at hand in the reading rooms there are only 200 periodicals available at the present time, which cost the government about 80,000 marks.

CONCERTS MAY NOT BE OPEN

Students' concerts by the Los Angeles Symphony orchestra this season may not be open to student from Glendale Union High school, owing to the fact that pupils from the Los Angeles city school system are expected to completely fill the immense Philharmonic auditorium.

Mrs. Dora L. Gibson, head of the high school music department, expects to make a special trip to Los Angeles Saturday to investigate this matter. She is of the opinion that it will be necessary to exclude the pupils from all suburban schools.

Tickets for these concerts, which are given in the afternoon especially for school children, are sold at the rate of four for 50 cents.

Last year the entire expense of the concerts was paid by W. A. Clark of Los Angeles, who is backing up the Los Angeles Symphony orchestra financially. Money paid by the students for tickets was returned to the music department of the schools. Glendale's share was sufficient to purchase a set of bells for the high school orchestra.

CONCERT BY GLEE CLUB

The University of California Glee club will give two programs tomorrow afternoon for the enjoyment of students at Glendale Union High school.

Through the special efforts of Vice-Principal A. L. Ferguson, in behalf of the student body, it was induced to come to Glendale.

H. Kendrick of Alhambra, who was a delegate to the recent national convention of the American Legion at New Orleans, is scheduled to attend Friday night's session of Post 127 of the American Legion.

ANNEXATION IN QUESTION

The recent annexation of the Lake district to Glendale may be annulled, according to City Manager W. H. Reeves. He has been informed that a case is to be filed in the superior court to have this action taken on the grounds that the procedure contained a technical flaw. He did not define this defect. Mr. Reeves is hopeful that the case may be settled out of court.

LEGION ISSUES WARNING

The local post of the American Legion has no solicitors in the field and has absolutely no intention of sending any out to raise funds for any purpose whatever.

Attorney James F. McBryde, commander of Post 127, made this statement today in his office at 111-A East Broadway, after a case of attempting to secure donations through the use of the name of the American Legion had been reported to him.

Mrs. H. A. Marple reported to the police yesterday that a man had come to her home at 1539 Glenwood road, represented himself as a solicitor for the American Legion bonus fund and had besought her for a dollar.

R. DUNN IN HOSPITAL

Russell Dunn, son of F. Dunn of Rural Route No. 5, had his appendix removed last night in an emergency operation at the Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital.

BICYCLE IS STOLEN

A blue Harley Davidson bicycle, which was reported stolen early yesterday afternoon by Alfred Hermann of 340 Ivy street, was found a few hours later in the possession of Roy Jennings, 444 Seneca street, Los Angeles. Police are investigating.

MINOR OPERATION

A minor operation was performed this morning at the Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital upon Mrs. R. E. Paddock of Baldwin Park.

THREE ASLEEP IN AUTO

Three men and a Ford were seized last night by the Glendale police department. R. E. Fogle, William Ellingwood and R. J. Leeper, all of San Francisco, were sleeping in the sedan near the intersection of Doran street and San Fernando road when disturbed. As they were unable to give a satisfactory account of themselves and as the car had no registration card and none of them had an operator's license they were taken into custody. An investigation is under way today to find out if the machine was stolen in the Bay City.

EMERGENCY OPERATION

A sudden case of appendicitis by Lois Donaldson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Donaldson of 800 East Raleigh street, resulted in an emergency operation at the Glendale Research Hospital.

GETS WARMER BERTH

Building a fire in the Bentley-Schoeneman Lumber yard at 460 West Los Feliz road caused the arrest last night of R. F. Borland, a traveler, from North Kansas City. He spent the night in a cell at Fire Station No. 2 which he found somewhat warmer than a lumber pile.

MINOR OPERATION

A minor operation was performed upon George T. Knox of 1107½ East Broadway this morning at the Glendale Research Hospital.

The other is the baby of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Howe of 318 Patterson avenue. She was born this morning, Thursday, October 26, 1922. Both mothers and children are doing nicely.

Hunt for Man and Find Him In Jail

CINCINNATI, O.—Ferd Bader, sheriff of Hamilton county, was conducting a zealous search for John Pope, following his recent indictment for burglary. He was rather concerned over his inability to find the man until he was told that Pope was in the Lebanon, (Ohio) jail. The matter looked simple enough then, and he notified the Lebanon authorities that he wanted the man released. He was informed that Pope was serving out three iquor fines of $500 and costs each and would be in jail seven years unless he managed to raise the money to pay his way out.

'Ideals' Basis of Friendship With U. S.

LONDON, Oct. 26.—In a political manifesto issued to the British people today, Premier Andrew Bonar Law declared that "the maintenance of our good friendship and good understanding with the United States will be based not upon a formal alliance, but upon a community of inherited ideals."

Potato Vines Had No Spuds on Them

DEFIANCE, O—Glen Leaders, superintendent of the Defiance County Infirmary, made a trip to his potato patch recently.

There stood the potato vines, all in rows, just as they had come up and flourished all season, but examination revealed that nary a potato was left on their roots. Some marauder had pulled the vines, stripped the potatoes and then stuck the roots back into the ground to cover the evidence of his deed.

Parliament Fight On In England Now

LONDON, Oct. 26.—England is without a parliament today for the first time in four years and the bitter political struggle for control of the new parliament seemed to be converging into a double combat with both Tories and Liberals lined up together against the laborite-socialist element.

Premier Andrew Bonar Law was expected in his speech in his home town of Glasgow this evening to outline his new policies and to reply to the Liberal policies outlined by Former Premier Lloyd George yesterday.

ADMINISTRATION UPHELD

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—The administration of E. Mont Reily, governor of Porto Rico, was upheld today by Gayetano Coll Cuchi, speaker of the Porto Rican house of representatives, who called upon President Harding at the White House. Cuchi told the President the controversy over Reily had set the island's progress "back fifty years."

McCourt, Mrs. Harry Lockwood, Mrs. Newport and Mrs. Harry Goodwin of Los Angeles. High score at bridge was made by Mrs. Newport.

The guests included Mrs. Elton Ostrander, Mrs. Crumbling, Mrs. Frank Boynton, Mrs. Merrill Russell, Mrs. W. N. Stamps and Mrs. George Harris. All who are planning to attend are requested if possible to come in costume keeping with the spirit of the evening.

HOSTESS BEHALF CHILDREN

Mrs. L. C. Conner of 622 East Lomita avenue was hostess yesterday afternoon at a children's party celebrating the fifth birthday of her son Perry. The children enjoyed games and a birthday lunch and Mrs. Conner was assisted in entertaining them by her niece, Miss Amber Smith.

Hallowe'en decorations were used by Mrs. Conner and the feature of the luncheon was a large birthday cake lighted by five candles.

The children invited to the party were Jean and Aileen Rooney, Marie Burt, Beulah and Jean Cox, Homer Mohannon, Robert Stone and Junior Olives.

THEATRES

The Glendale

They dared not kill him; they dared not let him live. In this dilemma were Black Michael's conspirators against the King of Ruritania. This is but one of the amazing dramatic situations in the Rex Ingram production of "The Prisoner of Zenda," at the Glendale theatre.

It is a story of how a man rules a kingdom and a princess' heart and loses both. Love, danger, gaiety, intrigue, beautifully portrayed, feature Rex Ingram's version of Anthony Hope's romance.

The cast is headed by Alice Terry and Lewis Stone and they are assisted by a group of clever actors and actresses.

The T. D. & L.

This is the message that Ralph Allan has issued to Glendalians: "Today is the last day of the presentation of that finest of all motion pictures, 'Manslaughter.' There have been 5000 Glendalians attend its showing here already and all those who have not seen it will have to do so by tonight.

"The admirable Thomas Meighan, wonderfully supported by Leatrice Joy, gives the best interpretation of his career. De Mille, the producer, has made in "Manslaughter" his greatest film drama and not to have seen it is to have missed one of the truly great accomplishments of the screen."

BUILDING PERMITS TOTAL $23,400 FOR ONE DAY

Eagle Rock Figures Mount at Rapid Rate; Now at $130,000 for Month

Yesterday was a banner day in the building department in the Eagle Rock city hall, when the building record for the day reached $23,400, bringing the total for the month over $130,000.

All past records in the department that issues plumbing permits were also smashed when Earl O. Stice, who conducts a plumbing establishment at 730 East Colorado boulevard, was issued fifteen plumbing permits that totaled $4819. The record made by Mr. Stice is said to be unequaled not only in the total number of permits for one day, but it is claimed that never in the history of the building department has that many permits ever been issued to one man at one time.

Building Permits

Building permits were issued to the following :

Farrar and Faircot, to build a six-room residence and garage at 245 East Ridgeway, to cost $2500

O. J. Dellman, to build a six-room residence and garage, at 245 North Satsuma avenue, to cost $4500.

J. F. Fizmake, to build a five-room residence at 131 South Sierra Vista avenue, to cost $3000.

J. B. Buchannan, to build a one-room addition to his residence at 344 West Adams street, to cost $300.

L. A. Kingdon, to build a five-room residence and garage at 230 North Ellis avenue, to cost $4000.

S. L. Smith, to build a six-room residence and garage at 303 Delaware avenue, to cost $3900.

F. P. Sherman, to build a five-room residence and garage at 237 South Townsend, to cost $3000.

Amy M. Besse, to build a four-room residence on College View, to cost $2000.

R. E. Thompson, to build a sleeping porch to his residence at 107 Harvard drive, to cost $200.

California's Champion

The voters of California voiced their approval of Friend W. Richardson's economy platform, and they will not be disappointed. He is armed with the axe of Economy and will destroy the Serpent of waste.

Many Democratic newspapers throughout the state, who will not support Woolwine for governor, are coming out with strong support of Friend W. Richardson.

The following editorial comments on the wetness of Woolwine, all Democratic papers, is scissored from the Livermore Herald. Editor Henry starts off by saying:

Much interesting comment has been made by the newspaper editorial writers on the 'wet' platform of Thomas Lee Woolwine, Democratic candidate for governor, with the following two especially interesting in view of the fact that the writers of both are well-known Democratic leaders in their respective communities.

Woolwine has no staunch er admirer in California than Editor E. G. Adams of the Livingston Chronicle, and when Editor Adams pronounces Woolwine's "wet" platform a mistake it is a safe bet that Woolwine has erred. In the course of an editorial on the political situation, the Chronicle says:

"Now Woolwine will poll far more than his party vote. That being so, you might think it good politics then for him to have declared wet. Not so. It's true, probably, that he will draw to him several thousand wet Republicans, perhaps more than enough to offset the loss of dry Democratic votes, but on a platform characteristic of his record and with his campaigning ability, had he left out his modification plank, he would have stood a far better chance of election; in fact, he might have been elected."

Editor John E. King of the Hemet News of Southern California, another Democratic editor, believes that Woolwine has dug himself a deep grave. He says:

"Thos. L. Woolwine, Democratic candidate for governor, does not lack courage in declaring for light wines and beer. His greatest lack will be votes at the November election. Neither the governor nor the state legislature can amend the Volstead act, and it is in no sense a state issue. But every 'dry' Democrat, and this includes at least 175,000 Democratic women, will register their protest against Woolwine either by voting for Richardson or refusing to vote at all. And there will be no compensating gain from the Republican party. Thomas Lee has dug his political grave so deep that he will never hear Gabriel's horn at the resurrection."

ELECTRIC SIGN TO BOOST CITY WILL BE READY SOON

Edison Company Is Running Power Lines Up Hill; Ready for Event

The big electric sign that is to be placed on the hillside at the head of Eddy avenue, and that spells "Eagle Rock" in letters ten feet high, is soon to be installed, according to Milton H. Berry, Jr., a member of the committee from the Chamber of Commerce that has the installation of the big sign in charge.

"Just received word from the Edison company that they are running their power lines up the hill on Eddy avenue to hook on to the sign, so as to be ready to turn on the current the minute we get the sign up there," states Berry.

Plans for taking the huge sign up the steep hillside, and the date this is to be done will undoubtedly come up at the next meeting of the Chamber of Commerce, it is declared.

The next meeting of the Chamber is scheduled for Tuesday, November 7.

Mushrooms Tested, But Eater Is Dead

ORLEANS—"You can always tell mushrooms from toadstools by throwing a piece of silver money into the pot. If the money turns black watch out!"

So saying M. Lhermitte, baker, tossed a silver franc into the mushroom pot. It continued to shine brightly up at him from among the savory fungi.

Mme. Kerouasse, his neighbor, who cooked the mushrooms, ate some for luncheon. She died two hours afterwards after horrible suffering.

OCCIDENTAL WILL PLAY WHITTIER ON FRIDAY

Expect Good Game When Teams Stage Live Affair at Patterson Field

Another Southern California football classic will occur Friday when Occidental clashes with Whittier at Eagle Rock.

Unless early prophecies are wrong, the game will be a whirlwind of fight with speed from start to finish. It is claimed by gridiron experts that Occidental and Whittier will be more evenly matched than were Occidental and S. B. U. C. in last Saturday's struggle.

Whittier won the Southern California title last year, but it is claimed the 'Poets'" are not are not playing as good football this year, as in the first conference game this fall, the California Institute of Technology inflicted a decisive defeat; there is evidence to show that the Whittier eleven has improved much since its mauling at the hands of "Caltek" last Saturday.

The "Poets" defeated San Diego Teachers' college by a score of 35 to 7. This is considered a good record for the Quaker college as Occidental defeated San Diego by approximately the same score—35 to 0.

There is a possibility that tomorrow afternoon Gary and Ridderhoff will be unable to play, and if this is the case the Tigers will be handicapped, but after the quality of football played by Occidental against the California Cubs, it is safe to predict that Coach Pipal's men, even though deprived of two of their stars, will outclass the Quakers.

The game is to be held on Patterson Field and will start at 3 o'clock.

TRAPPED BY FIRE

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Oct. 26.—The state department of mines and minerals here is rushing preparations this afternoon to send a mine rescue team to the Sherman Babbitt coal mine at St. Augustine, near Galesburg, where three miners are reported entrapped by fire. First reports said that five miners were caught in the flames, but the department's report from Thomas P. Back, mine inspector at St. Augustine, states only three men were caught by the flames.

RAISE $6,600 AT AFFAIR FOR NEW MASONIC HOME

Eagle Rock Lodge Holds Big Meeting and Banquet, Is Announcement

There was $6600 raised in exactly thirty minutes last night in the lodge rooms of the Eagle Rock Masonic order, when subscriptions were taken toward raising $18,000 for a building fund for the erection of a Masonic home in Eagle Rock.

Subscription blank No. 1, and 13 were auctioned to the highest bidder. No. 1 was sold for $400 and No. 13 was sold for $300.

The subscription agreements are for shares of the capital stock of the Eagle Rock Masonic Building association, the price being $100 per share, and it is expected that the entire amount necessary will be raised within a short time.

It was one of the most enthusiastic Masonic meetings ever held in the city, declares Rollin L. McNitt, secretary of the building organization.

A large number of candidates were made Master Masons, and at 6:30 p. m. a big banquet was served at which a number of prominent men made speeches.

Claim Girl Is Left $25,000 for Reward

ATLANTA, Ga.—Has "bread cast on the waters" returned, or is somebody playing a practical joke?

That's what Jean Floyd, pretty nineteen-year-old Atlanta girl would like to know about a legacy of $25,000 she is said to have been left by an aged man named Binford, whom she once befriended while he was a patient in a hospital here.

When told about it Miss Floyd said she didn't know anything about it. According to her account, last winter, while visiting the hospital to see a sick friend, she became acquainted with Binford, who was suffering with broken ribs, and for nearly three weeks visited him each day and performed many kindnesses for him. She called him "Daddy" Binford and doesn't know his first name, she says. Binford, she said, told her she reminded him of his wife and that some day he would reward her for her kindnesses.

"I'd like to find out something about that $25,000," she said.

Hospital records fail to show any Binford as a patient during the winter of 1921-1922.

CONSULATES TO CLOSE

Seek Operation to Help Roy Gardner

LEAVENWORTH, Kan.—Staring, dry-eyed, out of the window of her home at the huge gray walls of the Federal penitentiary, wherein her husband, Roy Gardner, daring train robber, is confined, Mrs. Dolly Gardner sits hour after hour, praying that Attorney-General Harry M. Daugherty will grant permission for an operation on her husband's skull. The faithful wife said she wants to stay here as long as possible, as the thought of being near consoles her.

Mrs. Gardner believes that in the event her husband is operated upon and the pressure on his brain removed he will reform and soon regain his citizenship She declared six specialists have examined Roy, and each of them stated he could be cured of his desire to rob trains. On the other hand, Dr. Yohe, prison physician, in his report to Attorney-General Daugherty, indicated that, in his opinion, an operation would not remove Gardner's craving for banditry.

"Roy was injured in 1908 while working in the Copper Queen Copper Mine at Bisbee, Ariz.," Mrs. Gardner explained. "Up until that time he had never committed a crime. He suffered a compound fracture of the skull.

"Shortly after that he began his criminal career. Each day he became worse—by that I mean more daring. In all of this time Roy had never killed a man.

"I have X-ray pictures which show that there is a piece of bone about an eighth of an inch long pressing against Roy's brain. I will take these with me to Washington if my request for an operation is denied. If necessary I will appeal in person to President Harding for permission for the operation on my darling Roy.

"Roy wants to be cured and has consented to the operation, although he thinks it will mean his death. He is getting old. I noticed many gray hairs in his head when I visited him at the penitentiary. If he is kept in there in his present condition he will either die or become hopelessly insane."

Marauding Beast Is Reported In Florida

MILLVILLE, Fla.—Geese may have been able to save Rome by hissing and other noises, according to history, but a flock of them near here couldn't save themselves from a midnight marauder believed to be a panther, which is making havoc of the barnyards here.

Neither did the hisses of the geese, or whatever else they may have done, have any effect on their nemesis. He slew them all, and their carcasses were found next morning by their owners.

The panther, or whatever it is, seems to have no particular choice of food. Pigs have been heard to squeal at night. Next morning missing porkers are reported. Goats have disappeared with alarming frequency. The goose, goat and pig market apparently having been depleted, the prowler is now turning to humble fare and is raiding chicken roosts, it is said.

Notwithstanding loaded guns are always kept within reach and numerous hunts have been staged, the prowler continues to prowl. Persons who tried to get in range of him describe the animal as black, others say it is tawny. Fishermen say it is spotted.

DEAN MacCORMACK SPEAKS

Secretary Don H. Webb of 601 East Broadway calls attention to the fact tomorrow is the anniversary of the birth of Theodore Roosevelt whom he says well illustrated the spirit of Kiwanis.

There are prettty sure to be some rungs missing in every ladder of success. Here's where genius comes into play.

Jap Noblemen Work Hard; Set Example

TOKYO.—Rich Japanese noblemen put on coolie clothes and labored all day in the public parks here recently. Their purpose was to set a worthy example of diligence and industry to the masses.

But the masses, somehow, didn't get excited at all—for the simple reason that "indefatigable industry" is already the masses' middle name.

The Japanese coolie begins to work when he is big enough to toddle and keeps it up until he dies—and he has no Sundays or week-ends. There is much lost motion in his work, as western standards go. And he is learning how to strike and how to demand, and get high wages. He has ended the old myth of "Japanese cheap labor," and thereby he has removed one of the country's greatest advantages in international trade competition.

Works Hard

But, be all that as it may, he certainly knows how to work long, hard hours every day of his life.

So the coolies of the capital found it rather funny when the thirty wealthy peers, composing the "Brotherly Love Society," spent one entire day working in the public parks, in order to set a good example to the masses.

The Osaka Mainichi, one of Japan's greatest newspapers, poked a little gentle fun at the affair. "Useless efforts do not call forth the praises of the people," said the Mainichi. The Mainichi spoke of the general "derision and scorn" with which the people received the performance of the noblemen and commented:

"Of recent years the popular psychology has undergone a remarkable change. While the public has hitherto regarded even a slight labor or virtuous deed by the rich with admiration or respect this is no longer the case. The general attitude has become decidedly cynical."

Mother's Love for Hanged Boy Lasts

KANSAS CITY, Mo.—Mother love never dies.

Witness the case of Mrs. Ira N. Pavey, of this city, whose son, Ira N. Pavey, was hanged recently at Fort Madison, Ia., for the murder of a grocer.

Penitentiary authorities had planned a Potter's grave and a bed of quicklime as Pavey's final resting place. But, resting in a coffin, banked high with flowers, his body was removed from a local undertaker's parlor to a grave in one of the city's long-established cemeteries. His mother was responsible for that.

Pavey's mother was beside him during his last hours. She made a fast automobile trip to Iowa to comfort her condemned son. Grief stricken, she followed his casket to its final interment. Pavey's father and three sisters accompanied her.

His career of crime began in 1906, when he was sentenced to a state reformatory for a minor infraction of the law.

"The stigma has passed," said Rev. M. D. Paddock, who officiated at the funeral services. "He is in God's care now. We have all done wrong!"
